

ROYAL VISITORS.

Every Effort Being Made to Protect the Notable People Now Gathering in London.

DETECTIVE MACHINERY IN MOTION.

Elaborate Plans Devised to Deal With the Crush That is Expected in the City on Saturday.

The Residences of Royal Personages Are Surrounded Day and Night By Constables in Plain Clothing and Detectives.

London, Jan. 30.—The entire detective machinery of the United Kingdom and the continent has been set in motion to protect the royal personages and other notable people now gathering in London. Unwieldy as the continental secret services often appear to be, every effort is being made to unify them in order that no injury may befall any royal personage attendant upon the obsequies of the late queen. Sir Edward Bradford, the energetic one-armed commissioner of police of the metropolis, has devised elaborate plans to deal with the crush expected on Saturday, but to protect the kingly and princely guests precautions have been taken which are illustrated by the fact that Sir Edward Bradford's residence is surrounded day and night by constables in plain clothing and detectives, and that no person is allowed to approach until his card has been passed in. These precautions are applied in the case of all royal personages and of the principal officers of the crown.

Strangers Watched. Scotland Yard maintains the most intimate and secret affiliations with every detective agency in the world, and its devices for tracing continental suspects are now being operated under Chief Inspector Frank Frost, who is reputed to have a wider acquaintance with the rogues of the world than any other police chief in Europe.

Malesta and other anarchists residing in London assert that there is not the slightest probability of violence because England is "an asylum for the persecuted of the continent." At Cowes detectives are stationed in large numbers on both sides of the Medina river, inquiring as to the antecedents of strangers and watching all who approach the royal personages. Nothing definite is feared, but the government desires that the utmost diligence should be exercised, especially with a view of keeping Emperor William from harm.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Queen Victoria's Explicit Directions Written in 1862 Will Not Be Materially Altered.

London, Jan. 30.—The earl marshal, the duke of Norfolk, was unable to see King Edward Tuesday in order to obtain his majesty's final sanction for the funeral arrangements. Nothing, therefore, has been definitely settled except the programme for Friday, already cabled.

"Queen Victoria's explicit directions as to her funeral were written in 1862," says Truth, "and have not been altered in any material respect. It was her wish that the ceremonial should copy that of Prince Albert's burial so far as possible. The queen will be the first English sovereign who will not be buried at night and by torchlight."

Minute Guns Will Be Fired.

The war office has invited colonial officers and soldiers in England to take part in the funeral procession. Minute guns will be fired from all ships in the Solent and at Cowes, commencing when the Alberta leaves Trinity pier. Each ship will cease fire immediately the end of the procession passes her. When the procession has passed the battle ship Majestic the forts and ships in Portsmouth harbor will commence firing minute guns and will continue to do so until the Alberta is alongside. No standard will be displayed. Ensigns and union jacks will be half-masted. Admirals' flags will be fully hoisted. As the procession passes each ship its crew will present arms and then rest on reversed arms until the procession has gone, the band meanwhile playing funeral marches.

Houses Being Draped.

In London active preparations are being made all along the route. Houses are being draped and seating accommodation is being provided. A committee of ladies has obtained permission to hang wreaths of evergreen along the line, one to be affixed to each lamp post, and all being three feet in diameter and of uniform pattern.

Of all the ceremonies, no doubt the naval will be the finest pageant. The Alberta, with the body, will slowly steam along a line of battle ships extending eight miles. Facing these giants of the British navy will be smaller vessels and numerous foreign battle ships. Whatever the weather may be, the spectacle of the remains of Victoria traversing a line of warships—the guns of all booming—will be unique.

King of Portugal's Wreath. The compulsory absence of the Duke of Cornwall and York from the ceremonies is the occasion of extreme regret and of many expressions of popular sympathy, although no anxiety is felt regarding him, as the malady is not dangerous.

King Edward received Lord Salisbury and several other members of the cabinet Tuesday at Marlborough house. He held privy council at St. James palace Wednesday to sanction finally the arrangements for the funeral, and then returned immediately to Osborne.

The wreath sent by the king of Portugal was so large that it could not be placed in the cheppelle adente. It is in the form of a cushion of violets supporting a cross surmounted by a crown of lilies of the valley.

Foreign Warships.

The mikado wired such imperative orders to the Japanese legation for the presence of a Japanese warship at the naval display that the battleship Hatsu, now being completed at the Elswick works, Newcastle, one of the largest battleships in the world, having 15,000 displacement, has sailed for Portsmouth, although hardly in condition to go. The following is the order of the foreign warships at the pageant:

The Baden, Prince Henry of Prussia's flagship, the Hagen, the Victoria Louise and the Nympe, German; the Dupuy de Lome, French; the Hattususe, Japanese, and the Don Carlos I, Portuguese.

Troops in the Procession.

About 3,500 troops will be engaged in the procession from Osborne to Cowes. Ten thousand volunteers will be employed along the line of route in London in addition to 20,000 regulars. Some disappointment is likely to be caused by the statement that no photographs will be allowed to be taken of the procession from Osborne to Cowes.

THE BIG FIGHT.

A Suit to Enjoin It Was Filed in the Common Pleas Court in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Jan. 30.—The suit to enjoin the proposed Jeffries-Ruhlin contest was filed in the court of common pleas Tuesday morning. Application for an injunction was not made at that time. Judge Hollister, who is sitting in the common pleas room No. 1, where the hearing will be had, will be asked several days later to issue an injunction. In the interim notices will be served on the defendants. They are members of the original Saengerfest board of trustees, against whom judgment has been rendered for the deficit existing in the Saengerfest matter; also the members of the Saengerfest Athletic association company, which the attorneys describe as a paper corporation with a capital of $300.10. Messrs. Jeffries and Ruhlin and the members of the zoological association, a corporation which holds the site of the Saengerfest hall, are also made defendants.

No News From the Transport Wright—Left New York for the Philippines January 23.

New York, Jan. 30.—Nothing has been heard from the United States army transport Wright since she passed out at Sandy Hook on the morning of January 23, bound for the Philippines, and officials of the transport service are apprehensive for her safety. The transport was due at Bermuda January 25, where she was to take on coal, but she did not arrive there, nor has any incoming steamer reported sighting the vessel. Besides a crew there are 14 doctors on board, and the transport also carries a large quantity of medical supplies for the army in the Philippines.

SITUATION GRAVE.

Lives and Property of Americans in Venezuela Are Exposed to Guerilla Attacks.

AMERICAN LEGATION APPEALED TO.

United States Minister Loomis Said That He Would Wire All the Facts to Washington.

The Revolution in Eastern Venezuela Is Increasing—Insurgents Have Retaken Carupano and Will Attack Cumana.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 30.—According to advices received Tuesday from Caracas, a trustworthy engineer, who has arrived there from Piche lake, reports that the situation is disastrous. He says that 150 English Negroes who were employed to surgents began firing into the jundo police duty fled when the ingles, only 25 Americans being left to protect the property and lives of American families. The messenger from the lake implored the United States legation at Caracas to afford protection, saying that the lives and property of Americans were exposed to guerrilla attacks, firing around the lake going on nightly and the Americans being too few to hold out long.

Captured Steamers and Schooners.

United States Minister Loomis, according to the same advices, replied that these reports were possibly exaggerated, but that they could not be ignored, and that he would wire the facts to Washington.

Mr. Oleott, the Orinoco manager, has returned from Caracas, where he went to try to arrange for the release of the steamers and schooners captured by a Venezuelan gunboat near Trinidad. The British owner of the Venezuelan flag and the crew were not shot.

The revolution in Eastern Venezuela, near the asphalt deposits, is increasing, but the disturbances are remote from Caracas, which remains tranquil.

Insurgents Active.

Information that has reached Port of Spain says that the insurgents have retaken Carupano and will attack Cumana soon. Steamers are not allowed to land passengers or mails at Carupano. The commander of the French cruiser Suchet, which lies here, confirms this intelligence and he reported activity of the insurgents. It appears that an attempt to capture Ciudad Bolivar, capital of the state of Bolivar, about 375 miles up the Orinoco, is likely to be made as soon as the insurgents have received a large supply of arms expected.

Cables to the Trinidad papers from Caracas are severely censored. The Venezuelan government threatens three American reporters with forcible expulsion, and is rigorously suppressing dispatches to the United States. Even diplomatic messages are tampered with.

Campbell, who were found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing of Jennie Boschier on October 18, 1900, by the administration of chloral and subsequent rape, together with George J. Kerr, who pleaded non vult contende to a charge of rape, were brought into the court of oyer and terminer Tuesday for sentence by Judge Dixon. McAlister, Campbell and Death were each sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment at hard labor and Kerr to 15 years' imprisonment at hard labor. The sentences of all of the men are the full terms of imprisonment which the law provides.

While Judge Dixon was sentencing the prisoners Hugh Kerr, the father of George, lay dying within a stone's throw of the court house. Mr. Kerr is dying because of the disgrace of his son George. George did not know until Tuesday night that his father was so ill. Equally ignorant of the son's sentence will the father remain. He does not want to hear of the case at all.

R., Jan. 30.—A joint resolution was introduced in the house and adopted praying the United States congress to pass legislation levying a tariff on coffee entering the United States from all countries except Porto Rico, thus protecting the product of the island. SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It Will Be Kept to the Front in the Senate—The Indian Appropriation Bill Was Passed.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Senator Frye gave notice in the senate that he intended to keep the shipping bill to the front, even against appropriation bills, not yielding to them without a vote of the senate. It indicated a disposition on the part of the senate leaders to force to an early issue the question whether the shipping bill is going to pass at this session. Senator Turner, of Washington, spoke Tuesday in severe arraignment of the bill, declaring it to be a "Lawless, practical raid upon the public treasury", in the interests of a few private beneficiaries, and committing the government to expenditures aggregating $270,000,000. Before the session closed the committee amendments were informally agreed to.

The Indian appropriation bill was passed early in the day. The house spent the day upon the agricultural appropriation bill. It was used as a vehicle for the introduction of several general speeches.
